Ecology, civic engagement, solidarity

We adopted an environmentally-friendly approach right from the start: clearing land by hand, not cutting down native vegetation, using organic products, choosing electric vehicles, and giving priority to solar powered heating. All of these standards can be placed in the categories of ecology and solidarity and we take care to translate them into everyday habits, such as not wasting water, not littering with cigarette stubs or chewing gum, and limiting the use of cleaning products. In the hope, via a civic engagement, of one day sharing a clean planet.
